Attractive, spiced red plums, cloves and cinnamon really sing here. The palate has an elegant feel with raspberries and blackberries, delivered in medium-bodied guise. Drink now. Screw cap.

Although the only obvious difference between this and its Estate sibling is the 20% more new oak, there must be some fruit and barrel selection. This is in the opulent style consistently made by Katnook for many years, the one gradual change for the better less new oak and less time in barrel.
